

Sign Up for Posh Mom Picks newsletter (it's free)

Name [input] Email [input]

sign me up

Like free stuff? We're giving away...

HOME	BLOG	SOCIAL NETWORK	PRESS	CONTACT
------	------	----------------	-------	---------

CELEBRITY MOM BLOG

FASHION

Amy Smilovic, owner of the trendy clothing company TIBI, threads her way through the maze of motherhood.

TRAVEL&CULTURE

Taylor Baldwin and Colleen Dealy, co-hosts of the national radio talk show "The Good Stuff", shed light on all things worldly.

BODY&SOUL

Keri Glassman, author and creator of her own nutrition bar, knows all too well the difficulty of getting yourself on your to-do list.

ASK POSH MOM

Mom predicaments can happen-we'll solve them posh style!

MORNING LATTECOMING SOON

Amy and Jara's Video Podcast. Tune in as the posh moms discuss the day's news, trends, the scoop on mom happenings and more.

PICTURE THIS

Wednesday, November 28th 2007, 8:50 PM

Holiday time—gotta love it. With Thanksgiving memories not even etched in, we're planning and prepping for all the wintertime to-dos.

One being figuring where everyone is going to sit at family celebrations, since every year the babies get bigger and need their own spots at the table. We found an ingenious "kids" table that not only fits them perfectly but will also keep them busy long after your meal is underway.

Paperwhite furniture is made of corrugated cardboard—flat pieces fold into chairs, the table top fits into the base—and decorated with outlines of scenes (under the sea, birthday party) just waiting to be colored in. You'll be serving dessert and coffee well before you hear whining from the little ones—just be sure to serve up a heaping box of crayons with their dinner.

Even if you have tons of food leftover, nothing at this kids' spot will go to waste: The table top masterpiece can be removed from the base and given as a Chanukah/Christmas gift for Grandma and Grandpa to hang on their wall.

Dish with us:

What are your tricks for keeping kids busy during holiday meals?

SOCIAL NETWORK

Username [input]

Password [input]

login

SIGN UP | Lost Password

POSH GROUPS

Designer Dish Fashion

Going Places Travel & Culture

Lifts, Lipo and lip jobs Beauty

Gulf Hurricane Relief

Help Support Health Clinics Providing Critical Aid to Evacuees.